E. A. S. Says Specific Invasion Plans Made

In Sicilian Campaign

Military Medal Won By Red Deer Soldier

For doggedly carrying on with his work of maintaining contact with the main body of his unit from an isolated advanced post after an enemy sniper's bullet had wounded him in the left hand, Cpl. Robert Ellenwood, of Red Deer, an original member of The Royal Edmonton Regiment, has been awarded the Military Medal.

Award to the Alberta non-commissioned officer was disclosed here Friday in a letter received by Dave Smith, employee of the Canadian Legion from his son, Pte. W. D. "Billy" Smith, another original member of The Royal Edmonton Regiment.

Pte. Billy's Smith, who was well known here as a boxer, who once fought the provincial amateur middleweight title, was writing while the Sicilian campaign was in progress. Pte. Smith said that Ellenwood had displayed great courage and all members of the unit were highly pleased that his act of bravery had won official recognition.

"Billy" also mentioned that Lt. Col. J. C. Jefferson, commanding an Alberta infantry unit, was awarded the D.S.O. for bravery in the same action.

CPL. ROBERT ELLENWOOD

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that "specific and precise" plans have been made for great, new blows at Germany and Japan, including "definite times and places for other landings on the continent of Europe and elsewhere."

In a war review sent to Congress, the United States commander-in-chief said Hitler has left "vulnerable spots in the wall of the so-called fortress—which we shall point out to him in due time."

But the blunt fact is, he said, that the United Nations are a long way from victory in any major theatre of the war, and there are no let-down anywhere.

HINTS AT BALKANS

Mr. Roosevelt gave a possible hint that the Balkans might be the scene of one new thrust—and that in the immediate future. Reporting definite, informal plans for a growing desire for peace in Rumania, Hungary and Bulgaria, as well as in Finland in northern Europe, he said:

"We hope that in these nations the spirit of revolt against the domination which commenced in Italy will burst into flame and become a consuming fire."

Perhaps significant, he did not urge the people of those nations to take up the hour of their revolt.

His review fitted all the pieces of current war developments into a single pattern of global strategy, and he spoke confidently of victory in the war, saying that it is still distant.

Nonetheless, he said, the time is here to begin planning and even legislating for the demobilization of the armed forces to provide the millions of members with greater economic protection and educational opportunities, and he spoke, too, of the necessity of seeking now to establish "far international relationships" on a "permanent basis."

MUST END POLICY

"The policy of the good neighbor has shown such success in the hemisphere of the Americas," he said.

C.Q.M.S. Harry Bannon, former Edmonton soccer star, killed while serving with an Alberta infantry unit in the recent Sicilian campaign, died while trying to carry a wounded comrade to safety.

This was revealed here Friday in a letter from Pte. W. D. "Billy" Smith, Edmonton boxing champion, serving with the same unit during the Sicilian fighting.

Pte. Smith, writing to his father, said that Harry Bannon was a very good soccer player and was very popular among the boys in the unit.

Repairing of the Jasper Avenue and 101 street intersection, and the relaying of street railway track material, will be completed within two weeks.

The project, which will be carried out under the supervision of the city engineer's department, will cost approximately $35,000 and will be completed within two weeks.

The starting of this work has been considerably delayed through inability to secure delivery of the street railway track material. This has been increased to three, and it is probable that the "dual" service will be abandoned for ever.

North and south vehicular traffic at the intersection, however, will be made to circulate this traffic, and also for the handling of pedestrian traffic.

Enemy Rolled Back 11 Miles From Beach In Salerno Battle

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 17.—(AP)—Berlin spokesmen today told Swedish correspondents that "a Canadian division" had been moved by sea from Calabria province at the foot of Italy and landed at Prescum and Castellabate, both on the Gulf of Salerno, "in order to strengthen the 5th Army's bridgehead."

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, Sept. 17.—The Allied Fifth Army has crushed three more German counter-attacks, rolled the enemy back 11 miles from the Salerno beach and made patrol contact with the British-Canadian Eighth Army racing up from the south to join the drive on Naples, Rome and northern Italy.

Fighting on the Salerno front south of Naples continued heavy but the offensive stalled yesterday by the Fifth Army surged slowly forward, inflicting heavy casualties on the Germans, capturing three tanks, taking prisoners and knocking out considerable Nazi armor to weaken enemy counter-thrusts.

(A correspondent who flew over the battle zone above Salerno reported that long columns of Germans were retreating toward to Avellino, 17 miles north of Salerno, where they fanned out toward Naples and due north. "Hundreds" of engagements were reported going on between the Allies and enemy pockets covering the main German retreat.)

"Our beachheads have been firmly established," today's Allied communique said. But the British and American boys on the bloody beaches and in the hills near Salerno sent back another message emphasizing that they had beaten the beat the Nazis could offer and were ready to go on.

Patrols Meet South of Agropoli

As the Fifth Army, rising from the wreckage of its threatened bridgehead, pushed the Germans back through the town of Albarella, 10 miles inland, and continued pursuit of the enemy, patrols of the Eighth Army made contact with Clark's patrols south of Agropoli.

Bishops Urge Campaign For Social Justice

that existed after the last war," he said.

He appealed for a movement to bring about social justice and justice and abolition of patronage and graft, among other things.

The party would take effective steps to bring this about by having its support, he said, and he hoped would "give the support of the entire Anglican community of Canada."

Rev. H. F. Ragg, bishop of Calgary, supported Bishop Carrington.

"I come out flat-footed for social justice," he said. "I never will stand by after having seen the possibilities of taxation for the sake of munitions of war and not see it for the sake of the lives of men."

He would lead the people against any government that will not give social justice.

"The motion of the reconstruction committee's report later was referred to the various boards of the church concerned."

The committee recommended that Canada's fighting men and the women of the forces should be welcomed and weaved into community life on their return. Provision should be made for continuation of the education of those who are of study were interrupted by enemies.

IMPLEMENT CHARTER

Implementing of the Atlantic Charter in Canadian life was recommended and it also was suggested that the churches of Canada should have a representative on a federal committee on reconstruction which had been proposed by the Dominion government. It was also urged that the church should have a voice in formulation of peace terms.

Other recommendations had to do with placing of Canadian chaplains on their return to Canada, rehabilitation of returned men in relation to industry and home life, adjustment of the life and the challenge to the church in northwestern Canada through the Alaska highway project and similar enterprises.

The report of the committee on provision of the churches was debated at length early in the session. Finally the synod, by resolution, expressed the desire to meet the representatives of other Christian communities and extended an invitation to such communities to initiate conversations.

In presenting the report, Rev. John Lyons, Bishop of Ontario, said there was a strong feeling for reconstruction but it should not be brought about by economic pressure or legislation. He said the mission of Christians was the goal—not just a part of it.

said, "that its extension to the whole world seems to be the next step."

In other statements looking to the war end, the president said:

"When Hitler and the Nazis go out the Prussian military clique must go with them. The war-crime gangs of militarists must be rooted out of Germany—and out of Japan."

He said he has no real assurance of future peace.

CANNOT TRUST JAPAN

"It goes without saying that when Japan surrenders, the United Nations will never again let her have authority over the islands which were mandated to her by the League of Nations. Japan obviously is not to be trusted. And the same thing holds good in the case of the vast territories which Japan has stolen from China long before the war began."

He confided himself largely to analyzing what has been accomplished on the lightning fronts and on the production front and to predicting powerful new thrusts at the foe, including fresh invasions of Hitler's European stronghold.

BID TO SATELLITES

He made a bid for the Axis satellites to get out of the war, mentioning Rumania, Hungary, Finland and Bulgaria. He said the Allies have no desire of "defeating and destroying a growing desire for rest and a growing desire for peace" among their peoples, adding:

"We hope that in these nations the spirit of revolt against Nazi rule will be kindled and that Italy will burst into flame and become a consuming fire."

Roosevelt praised Russia's sledgehammer blows against the Nazis and at the same time gave his own feelings toward the Russian people.

"The Russian people have shown a courage and a determination to win which have drawn off enough German strength from the Russian front to make it a serious matter."

HELP TO RUSSIA

He said it was certain that the campaign in North Africa, Sicily and Italy, the campaign against the large numbers of German planes in the skies over Western Europe, have given important aid to the Russian armies along their front.

He said the Russian people have given important aid to the Russian armies along their front.

"We know, too," he said, "that we are giving important aid to the Russian people by making Germany keep many divisions in the Balkans, in the East, in France and in the English Channel. I like to think that these words constitute a part of our program."

In general, it was a confident, optimistic picture which Mr. Roosevelt drew of the progress of the war. But he held out an hour and a half for the fighting which he concluded at an early date, and he warned against overconfidence and urged continuation and acceleration of production of fighting gear.

GIVES MAIN POINTS

He gave a four-point summation of the war in telling Congress that "We are still a long way from ultimate victory in any major theatre of the war." These were his points:

1.—Despite substantial victories in the Mediterranean, "We face a major battle for the control of Italy," and a major task of organizing the Italian people so they can be taken advantage of.

2.—From bases in Britain, "We are sure that we have again and again the strength to strike not just in one direction, but in many directions, by land and sea and in the air—with overwhelming force and equipment."

3.—The Russian armies still have a long way to go to get into Germany directly, despite their magnificent counter-offensive.

4.—The Japanese remain firmly fixed on an aggressive policy in the north to the Solomon Islands in the south and Burma and China in the east, and to break through their defensive ring, "We must hit them and hit them hard, not merely at the front but at many points and we must keep on hitting them."

NOT ONLY LANDING

At the outset of the message, his major communication in Congress since last summer recess, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"The American and the American people can rest assured that the landing in Italy is not the only landing we have in mind. The landing was planned at Casablanca. At Quebec, the leaders and the military staffs of Great Britain and the United States made specific and precise plans to land on the beach.

"With Hitler and the Nazis go out the Prussian military clique must go with them. The war-crime gangs of militarists must be rooted out of Germany—and out of Japan."

He said he has no real assurance of future peace.

Story of Journey

British, U.S. Correspondents Establish Initial Contact Between 8th and 5th Armies

By DANIEL DE LUCE

FIFTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Sept. 15. —(Delayed.)—(AP)—British and American correspondents with the British 8th Army made the first contact with the Allied 5th Army in Italy today.

I drove through 100 miles of a mountainous, hilly, and rocky landscape, playing hide-and-seek with German aircraft scouts and into the dusty flocks of the Italian Air Force of Salerno to establish the initial contact.

The trip was a bit of tourism for the danger of ambushes, mines, and completed to the accompaniment of a roaring barrage from American guns. The ship-jammed rim of the Mediterranean as they drove off a coastal mountain to enemy bombing raid.

TECHNICALLY LINKED
Planks of the two armies were technically linked today by a strange, dust-stained convoy of one jeep, one truck and two staff cars from the 8th Army in which rode eight British correspondents and this American reporter.

With us were two British captains as conducting officers, and through they carried on the jeep, the party fired a shot in anger on the white trip in spite of the fact that the 8th Army was still in the German troops' outpost.

Approximately 100 miles from us on a mountain bordered Italian west coast the bulk of the 5th Army is moving rapidly as its lightning supply line from the Messina Strait will allow.

We saw our 8th Army reconnaissance today. A green column of half-track with a vicious 50-caliber machine-gun pointing squarely at the high mountain road some miles from Salerno.

A surprised young in a tank crew crash helmet leaped out from his vehicle just as we saw his eyes were deceiving him. Another fool and I would have given you one hell of a burst, grinned the American private.

ON DEMOLITIONS
The half-track came from a engineering battalion of an American division now fighting well inland from the Salerno beachhead and their task was to blow up bridges on the road along which the German might try to stage a surprise armored attack.

Our trip ahead of the 8th Army, with whom we crossed the Messina Strait Sept. 13, was not nearly so but quite—go to Naples.

The first Italian town I entered before the invasion (before the German) was a village of the town of Naples was 574 kilometers (419 miles) away.

Now I've only about 50 miles to go. The 8th and 5th Armies to meet will make it all right.

It was a fantastic drive. For more than 100 miles we were on the shores of the Tyrrhenian Sea, which is prettier than a desert postcard. We saw the mountains crowned by medieval villages and monasteries, all on the watch for the German, but seeing none. We repeated scores of hysterical welcomes from settlements along the road.

Proud, smartly uniformed carmen and patient railway employees bridged us with the warning of the last reported loss of German units in the Italian campaign.

Armaments of the Italian army were guarding railway tunnels, bridges and stations against possible German sabotage.

BRIDGE BLOWN UP
For 100 miles the only demerit we discovered was a small ammunition dump and a railway bridge the Germans had blown up. Elsewhere they had left the way to the 8th Army to advance unimpeded along the coast.

The desperate German rear guard, the 8th Army in the north and the 3rd Italian force on the heel of the peninsula around Taranto and Brindisi, had been taking a run-out powder for nearly a week, pulling back into the central mountain ranges and then planting mines and wrecking communications.

The Italians warned us against following the main road inland because of German snipers at Lauro and another town we had to go through. So we went on the way we weaved along the hills, sprouting once for cover but when we heard what the German said was a German tank rumbling toward a crossroad.

Nearly the music of a 50-caliber machine-gun isn't a pleasant sight every day in the week but it was to us this Wednesday morning and when we climbed out to talk with the soldiers we could have patting the steel sides of the vehicle with affection.

The 8th Army in this campaign hasn't fought any big battles but on the Salerno plain are found outposts in the middle of a real show. Offshore the gray shapes of warships and freighters, and landing craft dotted the misty waters. Inland the pall of dust hung thickly and guns thundered both and often.

REACH HEADQUARTERS
I arrived at the 5th Army headquarters almost simultaneously with Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, commander-in-chief of the Allied ground forces under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who was making his first visit to the battle scene.

He asked to see who had arrived so unexpectedly from the 8th Army and the Reuters News Agency co-respondent and myself were requested by him. "It was quite a trip," he said. "Not half so long as getting out of Burma with you, sir." I replied: "The general, his face as dark as mine, smiled at the recollection. "You have got a good and extraordinary way," he said.

Britain at One Time Had Only 3 Cruisers To Meet Italo Fleet

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(CP)—A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told an assembly of British last night that at one time in the Mediterranean naval campaign Britain had only three cruisers left to meet the powerful Italian fleet if it dared to seek battle. He had six battleships and a number of other warships.

In a broadcast review of the naval war in that sea, Alexander said the greatest Italian fleet was one of the great turning points of the war.

"A crisis in our fortunes was reached in November and December, 1941," he said. "On Nov. 18 the aircraft carrier Duncan was torpedoed and sunk. On Nov. 20 the cruiser Dundee was sunk. On Nov. 21 the cruiser Dundee and on Nov. 25 the battleship Barham."

"Shortly afterwards the battleships Queen Elizabeth and Vallant were severely damaged, and the cruisers Neptune and Galatea were sunk. There were three cruisers left, yet our war carried on."

"British aircraft carriers and United States carrier transported 81 fighter planes to Malta to protect that fortress during those dark days."

Canadian-Built Vehicles Have Key Invasion Role

By WILLIAM STEWART
TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(Delayed.)—(CP)—War on the Canadian front in Southern Italy has been fought largely by truck drivers, whose sturdy Canadian-built vehicles have rolled across hundreds of miles of dust, around corkscrew mountain roads and along flat beaches.

The campaign has far been one of movement rather than of firing, battle and the burden of its mobility rested on the endurance of the transport, supply service and road-repairing engineers who have countered enemy demolitions with steel bridges and other major factors.

A lieutenant-colonel from Calgary, Canada, who has been in the campaign since the start of the invasion, said the role of the Canadian-built vehicles was "to get the supplies to the front and to get the troops to the front."

The campaign has far been one of movement rather than of firing, battle and the burden of its mobility rested on the endurance of the transport, supply service and road-repairing engineers who have countered enemy demolitions with steel bridges and other major factors.

TORONTO, Sept. 17.—(CP)—Rejecting over selection of Kingston as site for a hockey hall of fame, Bill Wainwright of the Kingston Whig-Standard says part of the city hall will be used to house the shrine until after the war. Then the museum probably will be built as part of a civic arena. Wainwright cautions that the hockey museum who chose the site for the memorial devoted to send star players to Kingston each year for exhibition games to finance the project, the same as baseball's hall of fame is supported in Cooperstown, N.Y. "The hall of fame should be a great tourist attraction with hockey fans from all parts of the world visiting to see souvenirs of the game," writes Bill, "while it should also mean a new risk for hockey in Kingston."

N.H.L. prospects: Bobby Hewitt of the Toronto Telegram says Harvey Bennett, 17-year-old Ottawa General, is a candidate to succeed Frank Brimsek in Boston Bruins nets. Manager Frank Selke of Toronto says Leafs expect to have the Schirmer-Carr-Davidson trio in action again during the season. Selke says he expects to have last season's rookies, Jackie McClean, Jack Hamilton, Ted Kennedy and Jack Ingvalley while Jack Forsey is available. Forsey, who was in the Bruins McDonald. Elwyn Muesch, of the navy here, and a boy named Shevchuk from the Lakeside. George Bootman, who saw some N.H.L. service last season, is available if needed. Selke says he expects to have a back injury and unlikely to play. Turk Broda is regarded as the army next week. Selke says he expects to have a couple of Ontario juniors, Sutherland of Owen Sound and Mario of Toronto St. Mike's.

Incidentally: Elmer (Montreal Herald) Ferguson reports the old-time Maroons player, Dave Trotter, has recently been appointed Nova Scotia manager for one of Canada's largest oil companies, head-quarters at Halifax. Western Canada hunters bemoan their luck. A general increase of 25 per cent over last year is reported in the duck crop. And there's little ammunition.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(AP)—The hottest safari in Northern Africa, at last report, seems to be for the United States Navy. ... Cpl. Howard L. Dupont of Pinehurst, N.C., relayed the results of the first Moroccan open tournament played Aug. 15-16, and an amateur event two weeks later. Pitman Johnson, former Hunsdale, Ill., pro, won them both. ... He shot 76-72-139 in the open over a course that "was built inside of a race track and up to two months ago was a camp for our troops" and playing with golf balls worn. Dupont says, "some caddies at home would throw away at such loss." ... In the pro-in tournament Harry teamed with Victor Belline, Moroccan banker, and they turned in a card of 65-63-127. ... Dupont seems to think the tournament committee did a good job—they even got the Parks of Marrakech and his son, Si Ahmed Glauze, to play—but, he asks, why can't they get some good golf balls in Africa? "The latest quotations at Gibraltar are 35 shillings if you can get one."

Legion Demands Speedy Action in City Housing Crisis

Firm Stand Also Taken By General Membership Against Admitting Japs

Speedy and more extensive action to alleviate Edmonton's serious housing shortage and vigorous opposition to requests for utilizing Japanese labor here were subject matters of resolutions approved at the first fall meeting of the general membership of Edmonton branch No. 24 of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., held in the Memorial Hall Thursday.

The branch also elected J. A. MacDonald first vice-president, a post held previously by W. Williams, who recently accepted the position of secretary-manager.

Following J. A. Van Slyke, Percy Cowley was chosen to succeed Mr. MacDonald on the executive committee.

Mr. MacDonald was president of the new veterans' branch of the Legion here until early this summer, when the branch voted to amalgamate with branch No. 24.

HOUSING RESOLUTION

Following is the resolution concerning Edmonton's housing situation that will be forwarded to the Dominion Government.

Whereas the housing situation in this city is now in a very deplorable condition and whereas the anxiety caused by possible evictions is undermining the morale of soldiers and their dependents and lessening the efficiency of war effort.

Brothers Serve in Air Force

F.O. RONALD GOODWIN, SGT. VERNON GOODWIN

Flying Officer Ronald Goodwin, R.C.A.F., has been promoted to that rank from pilot officer, and his brother, Sgt. Air Gunner Vernon A. Goodwin, has arrived overseas, according to word received by their parents. They are the only sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodwin, 10431 University avenue. Ronald, 23 years old, enlisted in October, 1941, and received his training at Dauphin, Prince Albert and Saskatoon. He is serving at an eastern Canadian station. His brother, Sgt. Vernon, 18 years old, enlisted in April, 1942. He received his training at Lethbridge, Montreal, and Mont Joli, prior to going overseas.

Hold Rehearsal For Showing of Film About Army

A rehearsal of the listening pleasure that will greet the ears of millions Sept. 21 took place Thursday night in the headquarters of the U.S. Signal Corps, formerly the Dominion Motors Building, 102 street.

On the 21st at 8:30 p.m., Edmonton time, the Canadian premiere of the movie picture "This is the Army" will take place at Whitehorse in the new movie theatre. The program will be headed by direct wire from Whitehorse to Toronto, a distance of 4000 miles, thus marking the longest remote control broadcast ever undertaken. It will be further than from Whitehorse to Tokyo.

This fact was brought out last night in the preliminary rehearsal. Maj. D. F. Roberts, U.S. Signal Corps, Col. J. Kirkpatrick, U.S. Engineers, executive assistant to Brig. Gen. L. D. Washburn, Gordon Hamilton, director of Metropolitan, Hamilton, Canada City, CBC representative, and Miss W. C. Bridge, supervisor of radio work, were present.

FIRST OCCASION

In order to bring the program to the attention of the general public, the U.S. Signal Corps will, for the first time, be used for other than war communication. It will partly follow the Alaska Highway constructed by the U.S. Engineers.

The officials were over the program and discussed technical problems of the broadcast.

Musical selections from the Canadian and American "This is the Army," and the American Army "This is the Army," will be heard.

In this 17 minutes "Big Ben" J. C. McNeil, U.S. Signal Corps, Northwest Service Command, U.S. Army, Brig. Gen. L. D. Washburn, Hamilton, Canada City, CBC representative, and Miss W. C. Bridge, supervisor of radio work, were present.

Red Deer Resident Dies of Injuries

John Dickinson, 62-year-old resident of Red Deer, died Thursday in the Red Deer hospital as a result of injuries sustained in a car accident which occurred between 1 and 2 p.m. the same day.

Mr. Dickinson, who is employed by a rancher at Red Deer, was driving a team hauling loads of lumber. The horses shied at a passing car breaking the whiffletree and the driver lost control of the team. He was thrown from the top of the driver. His skull was fractured and he died shortly after admission to the hospital.

The Inquiring Reporter

At the annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association in Calgary, Dr. T. C. Roney, general secretary said that the shortage of doctors in some Alberta districts could be solved by a compulsory movement of medical men to those areas. Do you believe that would solve the problem?

Plentiful Yield In Northern Salvage

Edward C. Fisher, national salvage organizer, has just returned from the north where he visited the Fort McMurray and Athabasca salvage companies.

Mr. Fisher commended the work of the companies and stated that they were making arrangements to ship tons of steel and iron and seven tons of rubber, also 2,500 sacks of salvage.

The American army is co-operating with the committee in loading the material.

Mr. Fisher stated that the Hudson's Bay Company and the Athabasca Company were large contributors of the material.

PEGGY LIGHT, nurse, it would be difficult to say where doctors could be spared to supply shortage points. Here in Edmonton we are down to a minimum. The doctors are all working over and doing about as much as they can.

It is a known fact that it would be a good idea to move them. I don't think of any hospital or city where there are doctors to spare. All the internes are going into the army, and the older doctors are swamped.

Report Farm Woman Drowns in Cistern

Mrs. Elsie Matilda Skelton, 65-year-old housewife on a farm on Poplar Ridge west of Red Deer, was drowned in a soft water cistern on the farm, according to R.C.M.P. reports. She had been ill all summer and required considerable nursing after the expected arrival of three-year-old twins.

She left notes to this effect and intended to take her life, and her husband, who had decided that no inquest would be necessary. She is survived by a son, who is working on a neighboring farm.

Average human heart beats more than 2,500,000 times in a lifetime of 60 years.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Future Wife Wiser But Not Easier to Live With

Hard-Boiled Men Prefer Soft Women; Less Men and Women Know of Each Other, the Happier Is Married Life

What about the marriage of the future? Is the modern girl going to make a better wife than her grandmothers did? A man whose own marriage has not been happy thinks that she will. He thinks that she will be more interesting, more tolerant, broader-minded, more willing to keep her husband interested than the women of the past did and that she will not consider that a wife's whole duty consists in being chaste and a good housekeeper.

Well, of course that remains to be seen. Maybe the after-the-war wife, who has been a housewife or married fighting forces across the sea, will be a more desirable wife than the old-fashioned girl who sat at home and sewed and read. Certainly she will be different, but whether men will prefer the new variety to the old is open to doubt. Myself, I think they will like the clever and clever, a cultivated taste. And most men like the kind of cup cake to which they are accustomed.

To begin with she will be hard-boiled, and men have always preferred women who were so soft they were not even set. There is no tenderness, so far as credulity about the modern young woman, no pitying tears. She isn't going to weep over a weak-kneed man. She will bowl him out. She is a materialist, and if her husband makes good with her she will bring home the bacon. She will never see him through a romantic haze as a goddess. Instead she will have his number to the last figure. Her vocabulary will not consist of yes-yeses. It will be, "Oh, yes?" And somehow up till now men have never seen a woman so much for whom and who had a cleavage of all their faults and weaknesses.

They wanted wives who were comforters and who would bind up their bruised vanity with the softness of their flattery. And the preferred wives before whom they could pose as erasies and who would quote what John said in the first authority on any subject, not how she sized them up. Didn't find much in them to cheer about. And somehow I can't see a husband feeling that he has his heart's desire in a wife who is a better business man or mechanic than he is, and who draws down a bigger pay envelope.

UNDERSTANDING WIFE

One of the chief complaints of men bring to their wives and claims is that they never understand them. Well, the husband wife is going to understand her husband's psychology. He will find out that it is going to make for peace and happiness in the home. Friend Husband isn't going to be able to put over anything on the Little Woman who has been a wife for a while to shoulder with men and is wise to all of their tricks and man's complete diagram of all men's shortcomings. She knows all the little about going into conferences, and out-of-town customers, and taking stock, etc., etc. It will be for the man to tell his wife, who has been a private secretary and done a lot of telephone work for her boss, that the reason he didn't get home until 3 a.m. was because he was detained on important business.

BRISBANE, Australia. — Mountain and valleys and streams all passed before us as we flew today. I looked down with interest at the homesteads that remained of our western ranches. Much of the land is unoccupied here, because the governor for New South Wales and his wife, in some places it takes forty acres to support one sheep, since the land is poor and the rainfall is not very heavy.

No one had told me that I would see the men and women who went through the early fighting in New Guinea. They were not trained for jungle warfare. Though they fought with magnificent courage and won the prize they were given, General Eisenhower's chief of staff, General Banfill, was wounded, and I think he must have been very close to death.
